“Karabakh is Azerbaijan!”: our literature is confirming a slogan proven by history

If we take a general look at the history of the planet we live in and the peoples of the entire earth, each human life can be seen as just a "moment" in the global information environment. However, whatever fills that 'moment' affects the planet and all living things. We understand our whole life struggle in this "moment", search for meaning and live it. Farida Hijra's scientific and poetic creativity as well as her social activities combine her position as a citizen scientist and intelligent woman into a "moment" is called war. And this "moment" is not just a "moment", but a "moment" that will affect the world and humanity painfully, it is the mission of publicist writer, poet and veteran of the First Karabakh War, Farida Hijran, as well as a citizen-scientist mission.
